MANILA

The City of Manila, Capitol of the Philippine Islands, situated in the Centre of the Island of Luzón, was founded in the year 1571 by Don Miguel López de Legazpi, on the mouth and on both sides of the River Pasig.

Its geographical position is  $14^{\circ} 34' 4''$  North latitude, and  $127^{\circ} 10' 51''$  longitude East of San Fernando, viz., 8 hours, 28 minutes and 48 seconds.

Its population is about 300,000 comprised chiefly of natives, Chinese, Europeans and Americans.

The principal languages spoken are the Tagalog, the Spanish and the English, the latter being actually the official language.

The city is divided into eleven districts or suburbs, named: Intramuros (walled city), Binondo, Tondo, San Nicolás, Santa Cruz, Quiapo, Sampaloc, San Miguel, San Fernando de Dilao, Ermita and Malate.

SIGNALS OF STORMS OR INUNDATION OF RIVER

BY DAY

SIGNALS OF STORMS OR INUNDATION OF RIVER.

The readings of signals announcing storms or inundations of the river, which the Semaphore of Manila and the Harbour Master's Office make over, approved by the Spanish General Commander of Marine by the Decree of 2nd of July 1892, are as under:

FIRST. During the day, a cylinder hoisted in a mast; and by night, 2 white lights.

Observatory announcement. Indicate a distant storm, the direction of which is yet unknown. Having still time enough to change the signal in the event storm approaches.

Harbour Master recommendations. To be prepared to strengthen the fastenings on changing the signal. Steamers should have furnaces and boilers in readiness to steam. Small boats or those without cover are prevented from sailing out of the river.

SECOND. A cone with the vertex pointing upwards upon a cylinder shall be hoisted in the mast by day, and by night a white light over a red one will be hoisted.

Observatory announcement. Storm which Centre crosses the North somewhat distant; heavy winds of the 3rd quadrant is expected, that is to say between West and South.

THIRD. By day. A cylinder upon an inverted cone shall be hoisted in the mast; and by night 2 red lights hoisted in the same.

Observatory announcement. A storm which Centre is crossing the South, somewhat distant, winds of the 2nd quadrant, viz between East and South are expected, these are generally not so heavy as on the former case.

Harbour Master recommendations. For the last two cases. To strenghten the fastenings, and to draw in top masts of gallant-sails. The steamers will have the furnaces lighted up to get hot water, in order to facilitate obtaining steam, when it be necessary. Do not risk to go to the Bay in small boats or those without cover: the canoes (pancas) are prohibited to get out from the river.

FOURTH. By day. A sphere over a cone pointing upwards, and by night 3 white lights hoisted in the mast.

Observatory announcement. A storm whose situation is dangerous for the locality, danger however not being too close thus giving ample time for new advices.

Harbour Master recommendation. To strenghten the fastenings and to draw in top mast of gallant sails. The steamers will have the furnaces lighted up to get hot water in order to facilitate obtaining steam when it be necessary. Absolutely prohibited to sail with boats in the Bay, and the canoes are also not allowed to sail even in the river and no lighter or small craft with or without cover shall be permitted to leave

FIFTH. By day. A cone pointing upwards and by night a red light between two white lights hoisted in the mast.

Observatory announcement. A Storm which Centre is crossing very near by the North. Violent winds of the 4th and 3rd quadrants are expected.

SIXTH. By day A cone pointing downwards and by night a white light over 2 red ones.

Observatory announcement. A storm which Centre is crossing very near by the South. Violent winds of the 1st and 2nd quadrants are expected, though these are generally milder than in the latter case.

SEVENTH. By day. A sphere and by night a white light between two red ones.

Observatory announcement. Eminent storm for the locality.

Harbour Master recommendations. For the last three cases. To strenghten the fastenings as strongly as possible. To draw in all tackle and rigging's possible. The steamers must steam up; those in the bay to use machine to help holding on at moorings, and to get refuge at Cavite, if necessary; those in the river to use machine to help being fastened to the moorings. Absolutely prohibited to go in any boats in the bay or within the river while the above signals are hoisted.

EIGHT. By day. A flag over a sphere and by night 3 red lights, hoisted in the mast.

Observatory announcement. Great inundation.

Harbour Master recommendations. All the vessels in the Bay should not enter River, nor those in it leave. While this signal is hoisted no canoes are allowed to cross one bank to another. The guards of the wharves will not allow boats going out until the flood ceases in order to prevent accidents which may possible happen to non-observants of this order.

Notes.—1st Any of these signals being hoisted, all the Captains and Masters of the vessels are obliged to report to the Harbour Master or to the nearest wharf guard if they see any other vessel next to theirs not being properly moored, as defective mooring of any may occasion a great deal of damage to others.

- 2nd The flag to be hoisted over the sphere to make the eight signal may be of any colour.
 3rd The night signals are made with white and red lanterns hoisted in a mast.
 4th Signals for vessels in the Bay are horizontal and by electric light, the apparatus being situated on the South Malecon.

USEFUL ADVICES FOR FOREIGNERS COMING TO MANILA

The climate of the Philippines being of a constant Summer, although the heat is somewhat mitigated by fresh breeze and damp, which always prevails in the atmosphere brought about by the continued water evaporation which are emanated from the surrounding seas and from the numerous rivers, therefore it is very convenient to give some hygienic rules for the preservation of health in this tropical country.

It is recommendable to get up at five or six o'clock in the morning according to the period of the year, and take an early walk if weather permitting.

To take bath every day or very frequently, it is convenient to do so, upon getting up or before meals, being careful not to do it after meals or when the stomach is still occupied in the digestion; nor also when agitated, excited, sweating or ill, however little may be the indisposition. To transgress any of these counsels is to expose oneself to fatal results.

Never eat excessively so as not to impare digestions, but it is necessary to eat whenever one feels appetite, as otherwise loss of blood, a sickness so prevalent and typical to tropical regions is surely contracted. Take but little supper, to secure restful and sound sleep in order to preserve good health and be agile the next morning.

To sleep (siesta) in the afternoon is not advisable to all, because many people on this account suffer indigestions, and on rising far from feeling at ease, as some persons do, they feel uneasy and their bodily and mental faculties benumbed, which prevent them for a long while to dedicate their time in any occupation.

Clothing should be light, made of cotton or wool and not of thread, as same is not conducive to transpiration, which must be constantly preserved.

It is very convenient to use a flannel band around the belly and stomach to prevent same getting cold, an evil which everybody here is greatly exposed, and the consequence of it being catarrh in the bowels, which may turn into diarrhoea or stomach diseases.

Dew is very prejudicial here and no one should sleep at night with open windows.

On being overperspired or wet by rain or any other cause it is necessary to change the clothes immediately and not to leave the wet ones on the body, because this is dangerous for the health.

Alcoholic drinks or sexual pleasures should not be abused, as the consequences are worst here than in any other country of a temperate or colder climate.

Cold drinks should also be avoided as they are at their best when taken at the temperature of the day or of the moment for it is commonly said, though satisfaction is felt on taking them, they are detrimental to the digestive organs.

It is likewise recommendable not to purge very frequently, for they can produce serious results. The best way is to consult a doctor when heaviness or uneasy bowels be felt.

And finally it is important not to try to get angry and to prevent violent emotions. To be very calm and patient, because the evil temper has taken many a man to the Cemetery.

NOTES

1st Owing to extraordinary circumstances under which the Philippines are traversing it is impossible to publish in this book several details and notices of general interest such as the maritime post service for the interior and exterior and with the Iberic Peninsula; navigation companies with passage and freight tariff; voyages of steamers to the Laguna, Bulacan and Pampanga; the residences of the American and Spanish authorities; the principal civil, military and marine head offices; official holidays, etc. The alteration suffered by the aforesaid branches of public services is of such a general nature and to the fact that they are not yet reorganized, affords no grounds wherein to collect more reliable details.

2nd Readers will also note some discrepancies and uncorrectness, occasioned by the said anomalism and to the hurry which this GUIDE is being made by considering it to be a book of great necessity and most opportune in this period of constant change of officials, removal of residences, new commercial firms, growings and declining industries, etc. etc, but all errors and omissions we will try to rectify in future if the public be as benevolent as to run out our first edition.
